

Abstract of the Disclosure

Novel baculovirus expression vectors and recombinant antigens for detecting, type-specific herpes simplex virus (HSV) infection have been made. Diagnostic kits and assays for detecting type-specific HSV infection have been described. High level production of foreign proteins in substantially pure form are now made possible by the novel baculoviruses of the present invention.